

Learning the art of editing and the craft of opinion pieces

Wednesday 3 April, 2019

St James the Less, 4 Moreton Street, Pimlico, London SW1V 2PS

Sessions led by leading academics

Lane Greene, language columnist and editor at The Economist

Discover new approaches to teaching the art of editing, and explore the writing process from the perspective of a journalist

- Deepen your understanding of opinion piece conventions, the power of punctuation and the importance of pruning writing
- Develop your students' ability to create an individual voice through their writing, and improve their awareness of how to craft powerful written pieces
- Consider new ways to engage students of all abilities in the improvement of their writing and editing skills

Prices (subject to VAT at 20%)

£195 (The PTI)

£295 (non-members)

£145 (places from the same department)

For more information, contact:

E: events@ptieducation.org

T: 020 3174 1235

This day is for you if:

- You teach English at KS3 or KS4
- You would like to explore new teaching strategies to improve student outcomes by developing their writing and editing skills
- You want to deepen your understanding of how professional editors operate as a model for students to purposefully review their own writing
- You would like to network with like-minded teachers to develop new resources and share best practice

Book now at www.ptieducation.org/events

Speakers

Putting you in touch with up to date subject knowledge

Lane Greene is the language columnist and an editor at The Economist. Greene is the author of two books, Talk on the Wild Side (2018), and You are What you Speak (2011), and won the journalism award from the Linguistic Society of America in 2017. He is a former adjunct assistant professor in Global Affairs at New York University, and is a consultant to Freedom House, a non-governmental organisation. He received an M.Phil from Oxford in European politics, and a B.A. with honours from Tulane in international relations and history.

Teacher Leader

All of our days are developed and led by practising teachers

This day will be led by Michelle Holloway, Head of English at Coloma Convent Girls' School in Croydon, where she has taught for the past 14 years. Michelle studied at Liverpool and Southampton before a short sojourn in Singapore and has been an examiner for both Language papers for the new GCSE.

Workshops

Workshop 1: Using the New York Times as a resource

Workshop 2: Teachers and students as editors - a practical approach

“The lectures and discussions were both informative and inspiring.”

- 2018 English CPD participant

About The PTI

We know that for every student in every school, every teacher matters.

The PTI is a charity run by teachers, for teachers. We re-engage teachers with their specialist subjects, inspiring them to bring enthusiasm into class and raise the aspirations of their students.

www.ptieducation.org