

Expanding ideas: Hispanic literary texts to develop analytical writing and accurate translation

Friday 7 December, 2018

Friends House, 173 Euston Road, London NW1 2BJ

"Siempre imaginé que el paraíso sería algún tipo de biblioteca"

Jorge Luis Borges

Sessions led by leading academics

Professor Stephen Roberts, University of Nottingham
Dr Stuart Green, University of Leeds

Reinvigorate your teaching style with a fresh approach to teaching students translation and written skills at GCSE and A Level.

- Take home tried and tested resources to help your students to better structure their writing and to develop and include more complex ideas and evidence.
- Broaden your range of teaching strategies to increase the quality of students' translation, enabling them to manipulate language accurately and spontaneously.
- Discover new texts and authors from the hispanic world with which to engage students.
- Explore transferable methods that make topics relevant, thought-provoking and motivating and link from KS3 to KS4 to KS5.
- Plus, boost the amount of target language spoken in your classroom!

Prices (subject to VAT at 20%)

£195 + VAT (Schools Programme members)

£295 + VAT (non-members)

£145 + VAT (places from the same department)

For more information, contact:

E: events@ptieducation.org

Ph: 020 3174 1235

This day is for you if:

- You would like to gain resources and activities designed specifically to meet the new GCSE and A Level specifications.
- You want to equip students with the skills to write analytically and accurately translate materials to become confident, advanced linguists.
- You would like to increase literary, cultural and even philosophical content into your lessons and be shown how to structure them into your schemes of work for all key stages.
- You would like to expand your knowledge of authentic Hispanic texts and authors.

Book now at www.ptieducation.org/events

Speakers

Putting you in touch with up to date subject knowledge

Professor Stephen Roberts is Associate Professor and Reader in Modern Spanish Literature and Intellectual history and Head of the Department of Spanish, Portuguese and Latin American Studies at the University of Nottingham. His research focuses on the literature and thought of Spain and Latin America in the period between the 1860s and the 1930s.

Dr Stuart Green is a Senior Lecturer in Spanish at the University of Leeds, where he teaches on Spanish cinema, theatre, music, literature and art from the seventeenth century to the present day. His research explores questions such as the relationship between theatre and cinema in the 1930s and 1940s, branding in contemporary theatre, performance styles on screen and stage, and questions of race and discrimination in the performing arts.

Teacher Leader

All of our days are developed and led by practising teachers

Lucy Meyer studied French and Spanish at Nottingham University and completed a PGCE at the Institute of Education. She is head of department at Bexley Grammar School which offers seven languages to A Level and IB, and studying two languages to GCSE is compulsory. She is an AQA and IB examiner.

Workshops

Workshop 1: Texts for talking and translating - how to teach students to translate accurately and manipulate language to meet the requirements whilst increasing the amount of their spoken TL.

Workshop 1: Bloomin' writing - how to train students to systematically demonstrate higher order understanding, incorporate complex ideas into their work and structure their sentences and paragraphs for maximum effect.

"Excellent ideas and resources to bring speaking to life on a daily basis within lessons."

- 2018 MFL CPD day participant

About the PTI

We know that for every student in every school, every teacher matters.

The PTI is a charity run by teachers, for teachers. We re-engage teachers with their specialist subjects, inspiring them to bring enthusiasm into class and raise the aspirations of their students.

www.ptieducation.org